Dear Parents,

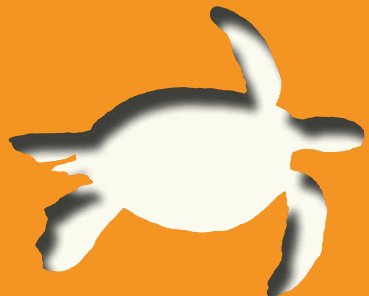

Your child is about to move into the next phase of their reading journey. At the moment they are learning in school that each letter shape makes a unique pure sound and that we can blend these sounds together to form words.

All the stories in the Sea Turtle Level assist your child with building their confidence and taking the small steps needed to blend sounds into words and read them.

Allow them to take their time and sound out each word carefully before reading it. You can read the stories more than once and continue to ask simple questions to develop their comprehension skills.

Did you know...

...that when baby sea turtles are in their eggs, cool weather leads to more males and hot weather leads to more females!

It is a pot.

It is hot!
